THE INDIE PRESS NETWORK

Founded in November 2023, the Indie Press Network is a not-for-profit collective that seeks to help connect independent publishers with each other, with booksellers and with readers. The Network currently represents fifty small presses based in the UK and Ireland, publishing across a wide spectrum of genres and formats, and has an impressive roster of award-winning and acclaimed publishers on its books.

This catalogue therefore represents some of the most diverse and innovative voices from the cutting edge of the independent-publishing scene, and highlighted in these pages is each press's key titles for 2024, limited to one per publisher per category.

You can find out more, including publicity contact details, sales and distribution information, on our website, or please feel free to get in touch at the address below to be put in touch with a specific press.

We're thrilled this catalogue has made it into your hands – thank you for your interest and support of the indie-press scene,

THE SEERS

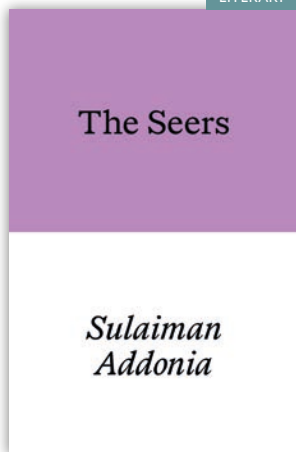

SULAIMAN ADDONIA

The Seers follows the first weeks of a homeless Eritrean refugee in London. The novel grapples with how agency is given to the sexual lives of refugees, presenting gender-fluid, trans and androgynous African immigrants, and insisting that the erotic and intimate side of life is as much a part of someone's story as 'land and nations' are.
