TWENTY-SEVEN
POEMS FROM TWENTY-SEVEN BOOKS, WITH COMMENTARIES
JOHN GREENING

- A haunting new selection of poems from across the career of a prolific poet.
- A poet's book of poetry for poets: the writer introduces his work for new readers as he would at a reading.
- A conversational and approachable volume for those interested in the craft of poetry.

John Greening's first poetry collection, Westerners, came out in 1982, and the intervening years have seen over two dozen more, large and small, from publishers across the UK and overseas.

Twenty-Seven is a fascinatingly vivid presentation of almost half a century's poetic output, selected by the poet himself. This literary tour chooses a single poem from each of the twenty-seven books and sets it opposite a short introduction – and so a poetry reading issues from the pages themselves.

A captivating selection, crossing landscapes and taking in various preoccupations, natural and ancient, modern and artistic, this is a book for poets, for those fascinated by craft, and is a joy to sit with for all.

'A poet whose unbounded curiosity has taken him through the wide (and often conflicted) world with a passion for details that root his work in place.'
JAY PARINI (on The Interpretation of Owls)

ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

John Greening is recipient of several major prizes and a Cholmondeley Award. Beyond the many collections represented in The Interpretation of Owls: Selected Poems 1977–2022 (ed. Gardner), he has produced anthologies and editions of major poets. Having lived in Egypt, Scotland and New Jersey, he and his family settled in East Anglia.
